On 11/10/2023, our field trip began at 10:00 AM from college, focusing on environmental studies through the lens of English literature. We visited the Forest Station to learn about local conservation efforts and Konni plantation to observe sustainable farming. In Kokkathod and Kalleli, we experienced traditional lifestyles, enhancing our understanding of rural life. At the scenic Malikapuram shooting location, we saw the natural beauty often depicted in films. The Kalleli Palam bridge highlighted human interaction with the environment.

Our final stop at the tribal village in Aruvapulam provided insights into indigenous customs and challenges. The highlight of the day was the students' engaging dialogue with tribal elders and community members, which provided profound insights into their traditions, daily life, and the challenges they face. Witnessing traditional activities and hearing firsthand stories underscored the importance of cultural preservation and mutual respect. This experience deeply enriched students' understanding of diversity, empathy, and the significance of social harmony in a multicultural society. This field trip enlightened our appreciation of the interconnectedness between literature, culture, and the environment.
