Gender Survey Programme, Awareness Session & Book Donation drive

Report

Spreading Awareness among students helps to facilitate the exchange of ideas, improve mutual understanding and to develop skills necessary for societal change. As a gender-main streaming method, gender awareness is crucial for integrating gender perspective into policies, programs, projects, and services that respond to the different needs of women and men. In order to bring a better understanding on gender equality and awareness about the problems faced by women in the present society, the PG Department of English of Catholicate College organized an extension program and book donation drive for the students of Govt. Model Residential School, Vadasserikara (Tribal School) on July 31, 2023 from 10 am.

The headmistress Ms. Reena Peter addressed the gathering, welcoming the coordinators of the programme Jiji Anna Jacob and Rijo John. Three PG students, Aleena Anna Cheriyan, Sayana Sam, and Lekshmi H were part of the program as student representatives. The students of class VIII and IX attended the session.

A questionnaire was given to the students to fill with the questions on their personal opinion on women safety and gender equality. By analyzing the survey result from their answers, a detailed discussion on the problems faced by girls and boys in the present scenario, and the need of safeguarding each other without finding any differences based on their gender was done by the student representatives from the college. Students shared their personal experiences they had from the outside world. The session was fruitful and enabled them to understand the importance of saying NO to things if they are not meant to happen. The programme came to an end by the donation of books to the school library.

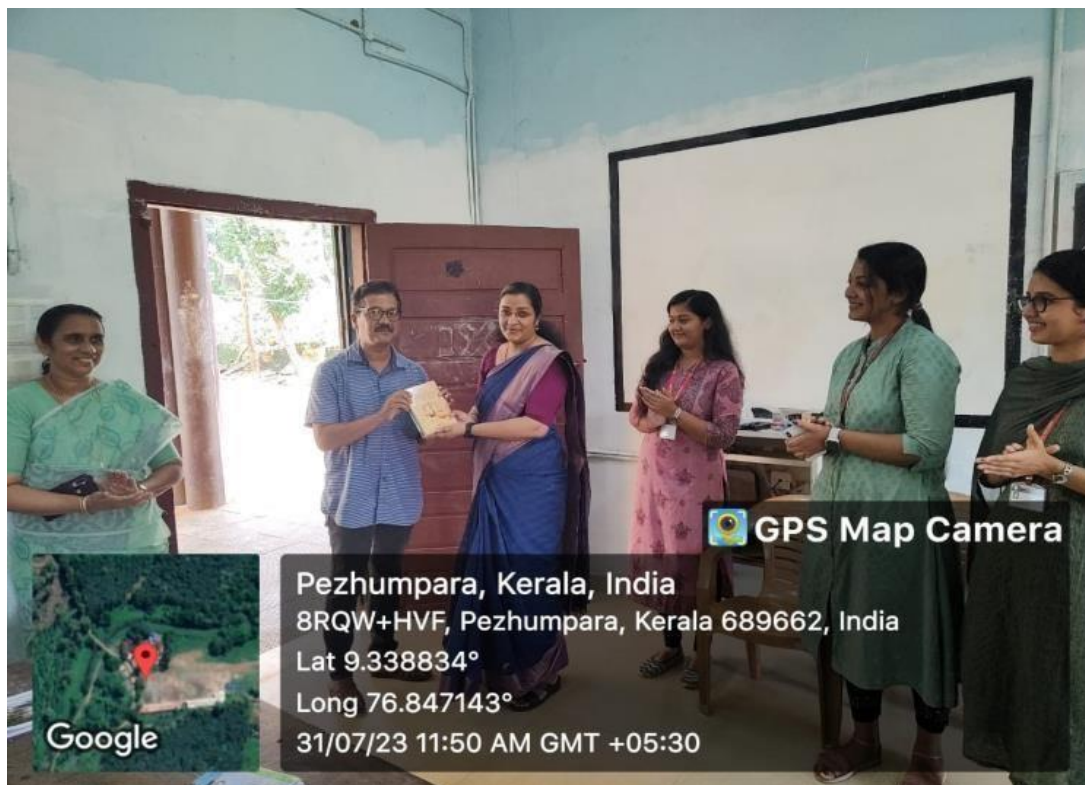

Gender awareness is necessary as an end goal for everyone, but deliberate work on this issue is particularly important for youth workers and young people who want to address issues of gender and violence with their peers. Gender awareness is necessary because no one is ever completely able to ‘step outside’ of the social and cultural processes that partly shape our identities, values, and perceptions, but we can still develop ways of reflecting and ways of interrogating ourselves, and this is very important for group work and group interaction. Gender awareness should also be seen as a process, because our ways of thinking about ourselves and others as gendered, sexual beings shift over time and in different contexts.
